H. J. Beyer met with a painful accident Saturday evening in cranking his auto.

The Jolly Four dance at Moose Hall attracted the usual big gathering of jolly revellers.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Richmond left Sunday on a two-weeks outing in the Santa Cruz mountains.

The new variety store of Bold & Lynch in the Cunningham building, is now open to the public.

Ending a two weeks visit with Mrs. J. T. Conwell of this city, Miss Myrtle Sanders has returned to her home in San Jose.

George Hill, popular Santa Fe railroad man, running between here and Los Angeles, spent his fourth at this end of the line.

Paul Gambs, formerly with the Pacific Carbon Works, has been named as successor to Patrolman Glover and has taken up his duties.

The arrest of Antone Blasi last Saturday proved to be a mistake and he was promptly released on the arrival of eastern officers.

Twenty-nine births and no deaths was last month's Richmond record according to the city health board. Our undertakers might do worse than to consider a term at obstetrics.

It wasn't so awfully safe, but if the verdict is to be left to the kids, that fourth of July celebration was about the sanest thing California has indulged in for several years.

Have you got the Fourth all out of your system? It was a hummer for Richmond.

Miss Marjorie Prizer, of Berkeley, visited friends in Merced the past week.

J. S. Moyle, a former resident of Richmond, has returned here and will open an up-to-date shop.

Pope, the druggist at Rust and Albany, is arranging to put in another drug store, the location being kept a secret at present.

Mr. Martin Lewis, one of our prosperous grocers, has just returned from a trip up into Yolo county, where he went for a quiet Fourth.

The beautifully decorated float of the goddess of liberty received its crowning glory of decoration when the 370,000 votes placed Miss Marion Luiz, popular bookkeeper at the Harbor Creamery, on the throne.

One very attractive feature of the fourth of July illuminations was the American flag waving above the Elks Hall. Brilliantly lighted by a powerful search light, it was easily the winner in the contest for honors.

The wedding of Miss Alice Garretson, daughter of E. Garretson of Hayward, to the popular superintendent of the Richmond quarry, James D. Smalley, is a social event soon to be announced. Miss Garretson is a graduate of Byrn Mavor college.

Physicians' Prescriptions OUR SPECIALTY

Drug Stores are really neighborhood department stores in which various lines are featured. One Druggist may push patent preparations, another toilet goods, cameras, optical service, the fountain, or other department which nets him good financial returns.

Our specialty has always been the filling of Physicians' Prescriptions and as a result our store has become a prescription center. We carry an exceptional stock of prescription drugs, and our laboratory equipment is up to date. We employ only experienced graduate pharmacists.

All of our Prescriptions and Recipes are important and deserve the special care which we are able to give them.

California Humming With Industry

Prosperity is awfully close to California these days—the sort of prosperity that has been in the east for the last few months.

If you don't believe it just take a look at the financial pages and you will be transformed from a doubter to an enthusiastic proclaimer. California mines are humming. Oil, the chief mineral product of the state, is yielding unusual profits to producers and refiners. New mines are being discovered with every setting of the sun. Prices are sound for agricultural products. The hum of industry is on in California. There is no stopping it. It's here.

And, too, we must remember that the richest parts of our golden state have scarcely been scratched. In minerals, alone, there must be untold riches in the vast ranges. In land that has been developed there is fortune after fortune to be made. California hasn't arrived yet.

The whole future before us is far brighter than the dazzling past. The romance of big business, of big agriculture, of big life, is coming in far greater measure than ever. It is a wonderful future, too, a future full of promise and hope.

See that California has sane laws, low taxes and protection for capital invested and it will be one of the greatest manufacturing states in the Union in the next ten years.

Our Boys Were Hungry; No Grub

(Special Correspondence).

SACRAMENTO, July 7.—The fifty-seven patriotic Richmond boys, who volunteered so freely to fill up the ranks of Co. B, had their patriotism and patience sorely tried at the inhospitable camp Johnson before being turned over to the care of Uncle Sam. Practically all of them were on rations of Sacramento river water for a period of three days, or until relieved by relatives at home.

More Wedding Bells.

Mr. H. C. Jacobson, a popular member of the Krimlin Club, Richmond's bachelor fraternity, deserted his old comrades and on Sunday last appeared before the pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Fresno with the handsomest young lady of that city, Miss Alice Irene Hudson, and a marriage license. Mr. and Mrs. Jacobson will reside in Richmond where the groom has a thriving business.

Ohio Water Cheaper Than Local Aqua

A San Francisco residence of nine rooms and two flats adjoining four rooms with baths, occupying a single lot, accommodating a total of ten persons, pay a water toll of $60 per year, or $5.00 per month. A similar property in Cleveland, Ohio, under municipal ownership, pays $9.00 per year. Hetch Hetchy should bring relief from Spring Valley to the tax ridden of San Francisco.

Passing of Noted Woman.

Dr. Warren B. Brown and wife of this city, last Sunday, attended the funeral of Miss Sarah Brown, daughter of Captain John Brown of Ossawatimie. John Brown of Harper's Ferry was the first cousin of Jeremiah B. Brown, Dr. Brown's paternal grandfather. The funeral was held from the First Congregational church of San Jose. Miss Brown passed away at the home of her sister, Mrs. James Fablinger, a surviving daughter of John Brown of Harper's Ferry.

After signing up twelve new members, the newly-organized carpenters' union Monday night elected the following officers: W. M. Thompson, president; Fritz Raube, vice president; Ira Johnson, recording secretary; H. Deppa, treasurer; E. P. Taylor conductor; C. Batten, warden. The trustees are J. Anderson, C. Batten and G. Grauland.

Visitor Wants to Know S'matter With Richmond?

Let me tell you what the matter is: The houses are too far apart. If, in the residence districts, there was a neat, attractive, comfortable cottage or bungalow built in between the widely-scattered boom products on your long streets and avenues, and the wide intervening plots of dried grass and weeds converted into live lawns and blooming flower gardens, your rapidly-increasing payroll would be kept at home and the twenty or thirty vacant business rooms would be occupied by prospering merchants and artisans, and, as the cottages and bungalows filled up with well-paid mechanics, a demand for more business blocks would soon result in the transformation of the pasture lands along the business streets into industrial, commercial and financial marts, which always follow, not lead, the people.

The marvelous growth of Oakland has been made possible by the wisdom and forethought of her monied citizens in providing comfortable and attractive homes and renting or selling them on easy terms. The result of this wise policy is shown in the miles and miles of artistically-designed villas, cottages and bungalows, owned and occupied by thrifty wage-earners, very many of whom are on the pay rolls of Richmond industrial plants.

If there is one house for rent in all Richmond which could be converted into a comfortable home, it has escaped my most painstaking search. And if homes are not being built by artisans, mechanics and professional men employed here, it is not to be wondered at. When the landowners and capitalists, whose every material interest depends upon a demonstration of confidence in the future of the city, fail in such an important matter as providing homes for would-be residents, it is not to be expected that individuals, whose interests may be centered at will in any community where the promise of employment seems to justify, will start the ball.

There are few, if any, new communities in the state as well provided with school facilities as Richmond; but in the matter of recreation grounds, parks and such other equally necessary adjuncts to the attractiveness of a dwelling place, there is no place with any pretense to notice of intending settlers but what is better provided.

Taking for granted the certain permanent growth of Richmond, which even the most optimistic of our boomers cannot overstate in their predictions, there is no safer or more profitable investment open to capitalists than the erection of cottages and residences for rent or sale, and certainly no better way of establishing confidence in the permanent growth of the city.

If you are afraid to take the risk of renting or selling your buildings, it is but natural that the ordinary mechanic or laborer will be influenced by your lack of faith and hesitate in investing his all in a home. Start a cottage and bungalow boom and get the PEOPLE here! It takes people to make a town and lots of people to make a city, and people must have homes.

EASTERN VISITOR.

Burg Bros. Have The Right Idea

Among the enterprising real estate men of Richmond who have foreseen the necessity of attractive and comfortable homes for workmen and their families, Burg Bros. have set the pace. These gentlemen have taken the initiative in the home-building campaign. The beautiful homes in the eastern part of the city and other sections of Richmond are ocular proof that the Burg Brothers have other and loftier designs than in simply "getting the money" for the land and letting it go at that.

Contractor Carl Overa, who has the contract to build the new school building, will award all sub-contracts to local mechanics.

William E. Calahan's Hat in Ring For Assemblyman.

Wm. E. Calahan, of Antioch, formally announces his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Assemblyman, 18th District.

Mr. Calahan is a successful business man who conducts and is associated with three of the largest drug stores in Contra Costa county. Before becoming employer, he was a card holder in the clerk's union of San Francisco.

Mr. Calahan received his primary schooling at San Ramon and graduated from the high school. He was awarded a diploma to practice pharmacy in San Francisco, where he followed his profession in the largest drug stores in that city.

Eleven years ago he accepted a position with Dr. W. S. George in Antioch, since becoming proprietor of the Palace Drug Store of that town.

Seven years service on the Board of Town Trustees qualify Mr. Calahan in legislative affairs, he having been a prominent factor in promoting good streets, of which Antioch now proudly boasts.

Mr. Calahan's acquaintance is large in the county and his popularity is admitted in fraternal, social and business circles. He is a young man who is aggressive, and competent to lead in debate on the floor of the legislature.

Progressive Newspapers Boosting Long for Assembly

J. California Rodeo at Salinas July 12-16 to Be Big Affair

(Special Correspondence).

SALINAS, June 28.—Mr. Frank Sheek, Monterey county game warden and local cattleman, involved himself in international complications this morning when an outlaw broncho that he was bringing into town from the Palisades, near Soledad, broke loose and plunged through the swinging doors of a Japanese saloon on the outskirts of Salinas.

A number of Orientals, who were having their "morning's morning" were thrown into a panic and in their frantic efforts to escape from beneath the hoofs of the plunging "bronk" clambered over the bar, breaking glassware and spilling precious bottles of "saki."

The animal continued his progress through the liquid dispensary, scattering tables and chairs to right and left, and when Sheek finally reached him he was trying to get behind the bar, much to the alarm of the proprietor and his customers.

After settling with the Japanese liquor man in the sum of $25.00, for shattered glassware and nerves, Sheek led his charge out—in much better condition than most men are wont to leave such places.

The animal was soon pastured at the race track, where he will be kept for use at the Rodeo, when he will be entered as "Booze," in honor of his escapade.

Refreshing Late Rain Wendel Had an Exciting Cruise

The splendid shower of July 1 was opportune. It cleared the atmosphere, and broke the drouth which has extended over a period of two months. There was little if any damage to the hay crop, and the Fourth was one of the grandest ever experienced in California, the delightful climate and the enthusiastic and patriotic citizens making the day one long to be remembered, notwithstanding the European and Mexican wars.

Weekly Summary of World's News

SIR ROGER CASEMENT FOUND GUILTY AND IS SENTENCED TO BE HANGED

London.—Viscount Reading, Lord Chief Justice of England, pronounced the sentence of death for high treason on Sir Roger Casement shortly before 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon, June 29, half an hour after the foreman of the jury gave the verdict of guilty. An appeal will be taken.

Sir Roger addressed the court, reading his final statement, with the explanation that he wished it might reach a much larger audience than the one before him, and particularly the people of America, from whom he had come many messages of sympathy to him and whose own struggle for liberty, he said, always had been an inspiration to Irishmen.

Sir Roger's auditors, among whom were Viscount Bryce and many other prominent men and women, listened in deepest silence, some moved to tears.

The prisoner said he did not regard trial by Englishmen in an English court as a trial by his peers, to which he was entitled. He reviewed recent events in Ireland from the beginning of the formation of the Ulster volunteers, and said:

"We have seen the Constitutional army refuse to obey the Constitutional Government, and we were told the first duty of Irishmen was to enter that army. Small nations were to be the first consideration, and I saw no reason why Ireland should shed any blood for any people but her own."

"If that is treason, I am not ashamed to avow it here. If the Unionists chose the road they thought would lead to the good side, I knew my road led to the dark side. Both of us proved right. So I am proud to stand here in a prisoner's dock than to fill the place of my accusers."

"Self-government is our right. It is no more a thing to be withheld from us or doled out to us than the right to life or light, to sunshine or spring flowers."

There were many striking sentences in Sir Roger's speech.

"There is an objection, possibly not good in law, but surely good on moral grounds," he said, against the application to me here of this old English statute, 565 years old, that seeks to deprive an Irishman today of his life and honor, not for adhering to the King's enemies, but for adhering to his own people."

"When this statute was passed in 1351, what was the state of men's minds on the question of a far higher allegiance, that of man and his God to his kingdom? The law of that day did not permit him to forsake his church or deny his God save with his life. The heretic then had the same doom as the traitor."

"Today a man may forswear God and his heavenly realm without fear of punishment, all earlier statutes having gone the way of Nero's edicts against the Christians; but that constitutional phantom, the King, can still dig up from the dungeons and torture chambers of the dark age a law which takes a man's life and limb for obeying his conscience."

"If true religion rests on love, it is equally true that loyalty rests on love. The law I am charged under has no pretense in love, and claims that allegiance of today on the ignorance and blindness of the past."

"I am being tried, in truth not by my peers of the living present, but by the fears of the dead past; not by the civilization of the twentieth century, but by the brutality of the fourteenth; not even by a statute written in the language of the land that tries, but in a language of an enemy people, so antique is the law which tries an Irishman who puts loyalty first."

"Loyalty is a sentiment, not a law. It rests on love, not on restraint. The government of Ireland by England rests on restraint, not on law, and since it demands no love it can evoke no loyalty."

With a sweeping gesture of his arm and with more feeling than he had shown before, Sir Roger continued:

"How would all men here feel?" his voice broke—"how would you feel if an Englishman had landed in Ireland, if that man had been placed before a jury in a community inflamed against him, believing him to be a criminal?"

Throwing aside his manuscript, Sir Roger said:

"My Lords, I have done. Gentlemen of the jury I wish to thank you for your verdict. I meant no reflection upon you when I said this was not a trial by my peers."

Then the prisoner shook hands with a friend who was sitting beside the dock while the usher placed the black cloths over the heads of the Judges. The voice of the Chief Justice was firm, but his face was pale as he spoke the few words in pronouncing the sentence. He began:

"Roger David Casement, you have been found guilty by a jury of your peers of high treason, the highest crime known to the law," and concluded by sentencing him to "be hanged by the neck until you are dead."

The prisoner, leaning on the iron frame, black beard and deep, flashing eyes, was easily the most distinguished figure in the court except Viscount Reading. As the Judge pronounced the sentence Casement smiled. Then a warden touched his arm and he withdrew behind the green curtain from what may be his last appearance before the public.

Sir Roger received the sentence with the utmost composure, smiling at friends in the courtroom.

After Sir Roger had been sentenced, Daniel J. Bailey, the private soldier who had been held as his accomplice, was placed in the dock. The Chief Justice directed the jury to return a verdict of not guilty, and Bailey was discharged.

It was announced that the crown had withdrawn the charge against him. The Attorney-General said Bailey had affirmed he joined the Irish brigade with the object of returning to his country and rejoining the army. Under the circumstances no evidence would be produced against him.

Michael Francis Doyle of Philadelphia, of counsel for Sir Roger, gave the following statement:

"The verdict, though regrettable, to us, was not a surprise. We will take an immediate appeal to the Criminal Court of Appeals and then to the House of Lords, if necessary, because we feel that the point of law involving a statute 500 years old under which Sir Roger was tried, never has been legally tested."

DISTINGUISHED MEMBER OF BAR PASSES AWAY

Had Successful Career and Took Active Part in Club Life

San Francisco.—Henry H. Davis, one of the most distinguished of the members of the San Francisco bar, died in Lane Hospital Saturday, July 1, of Hopkins' disease, an affliction of the glands. He had spent nearly his entire life in San Francisco and hundreds of friends will sincerely mourn his death.

Davis was born in Exin, Germany, September 27, 1851, and was brought to this city when he was 5 years of age. He received his education in schools of San Francisco and Oakland and in the year 1882 was graduated from the Hastings Law School in a class which included, among others, Judge Peter Dunne and Chief Justice Frank Angellotti of the Supreme Court.

Davis was past exalted ruler of Golden Gate Lodge, No. 6, B. P. O. E., and also was affiliated with the University Club, the Shrine, the Bar Association and the Press Club of San Francisco. For thirty years his offices were in the London, Liverpool and Globe building and after the fire of 1906 he moved to the Monadnock building.

He is survived by his widow, three sisters and one brother, Milton M. Davis, deputy county clerk of San Francisco.

JACOB L. HARRIS, PIONEER OF SAN FRANCISCO, DIES

Figured in Early History of California and in Alaska Stampede

San Francisco.—Death Saturday, July 1, took another figure of California's picturesque early-day history, when Jacob L. Harris, retired merchant and mining man, of 159 Central avenue, succumbed at the German Hospital at the age of 63 years.

Harris came to California in 1850 from his birthplace in England, by way of the Horn. He settled at Dutch Flat, in Placer county, where the mining boom was on, engaging in the general mercantile business. After the boom had died down somewhat, he removed to San Luis Obispo and started in business there.

The Klondike gold rush took Harris with it. He was a member of the first California party to winter in the Klondike, and prospected there for some years. He was a charter member of what was said to have been the first Masconia lodge organized in Alaska. He was a thirty-second degree Mason at the time of his death. About nine years ago Harris returned to California, and since then had made his home in this city.

Martinez.—Alvarado J. Solo, resident here for 55 years, died Monday night, June 28.

MEXICAN SITUATION IN PARAGRAPHS

Vera Cruz, July 1.—Nearly 600 American refugees from various parts of Southern Mexico now are on board the transport Sumner.

Laredo, Tex., July 1.—Jesse M. Mosley, carrying a commission as major in the Carranza army, was arrested here last night by a special agent of the Department of Justice, charged with having entered the United States to enlist negroes in the Mexican army.

Galveston, Tex., July 1.—Two American sailors from the cruiser Salem were wounded during a clash with armed Mexicans at Tampico last Tuesday, according to passengers arriving on the Wolvin liner Dade from Vera Cruz today, who received their information from passengers on the Ward liner Monterey, Tampico to Vera Cruz.

Washington, July 1.—A report from General Bell regarding the killing of a Mexican on the Mexican side of the border at Ysleta yesterday by Sergeant J. K. Fair of the Eighth Cavalry, was received tonight at the War Department. General Bell said the sergeant was justified because of the suspicious conduct of the Mexican killed and a companion.

Presidio, Tex., July 1.—It is reported that several thousand troops are concentrated at Lamuta, thirty miles from Ojinaga.

Army officers say the American side is well protected.

Lack of food and forage is said to have caused a reduction of the garrison in Ojinaga, just opposite here. Maximum estimates today placed the garrison at 600.

Washington, June 29.—Representations to General Carranza protesting against seizure of American property by local authorities in many parts of Mexico, have been made at Mexico City by Special Agent Rodgers. Official reports to the State Department have said that thousands of dollars' worth of gold and silver bullion, horses, cattle, automobiles and other movable merchandise belonging to Americans had been taken.

El Paso.—Amid the screaming of horns of the American motorcycle squadron, the cheers of the motorcycle troopers and the infantry and the yells of several thousand civilians, there returned to American soil this afternoon the tattered remnant of Troop C and Troop K of the Tenth United States Cavalry. Twenty-three negro troopers, two of them wounded, heard themselves applauded as negroes never before have been applauded by Texas citizens. Their white companion, Lem Spillsbury, the Mormon scout, beamed as happily as the others through his netted whiskers and the baggy clothes supplied him by his captors.

El Paso, Tex., June 29.—A number of fires of undetermined origin which recently have caused heavy losses in El Paso were being investigated tonight by municipal authorities.

The investigation is a direct result of a fire which today destroyed the building and stock of a wholesale grocer with a loss of $250,000. Another fire today destroyed twenty-five automobiles and the building of the Lone Star Motor Company with an estimated loss of $50,000. Several days ago another motor company was destroyed with a similar loss and several fires in downtown buildings have been extinguished since then before they gained any large headway.

Columbus, N. M., June 29.—For the first time since their mobilization on the border national guardsmen crossed into Mexico on military service last night. Three motor trucks were loaded with New Mexico guardsmen and dispatched, down General Pershing's line of communication to help guard against it being cut. This action was taken following receipt of a report that the Carranzistas have been concentrating large forces of cavalry at or near Guzman, on the Mexico Northwest-railway. Such troops would be in a position to interrupt the American communications, which are but ten miles distant from Guzman.

Chicago, June 29.—As a result of orders to hasten mustering troops in the Central Department, all organizations will be ready to leave for the border within a week, it was announced at the office of Major-General Barry, department commander, today. In Missouri all organizations have been mustered in except newly formed companies. Wisconsin mustering started today. In Kansas the Second Infantry has completed physical examinations and is expected to be ready to leave tomorrow. The Second Infantry of the Illinois Guard is expected to leave today. In Indiana mustering of infantry is nearly completed. Mustering is progressing rapidly in Iowa, North Dakota, Ohio, Michigan, Colorado, Minnesota and Nebraska.

SEARCH BEING MADE FOR MEXICAN TRIO

War Rumors Are Believed to Be Cause of Wrecking of Car at Oakland Station

Oakland.—Thirteen persons were more or less severely injured as the result of a terrific explosion Friday night, June 30, in the smoking car of Southern Pacific train No. 5, west-bound from Ogden, caused, railroad employees assert, by a bomb placed in the car by Mexicans who had become inflamed by war rumors.

The explosion tore a hole eight feet by four feet in the side of the steel car.

The Mexicans, of whom there were three, boarded the train, according to Conductor W. H. Brooks, at El Mirra. They went into the smoker. Two of them got off at Richmond. Shortly before the train pulled into the Sixteenth street depot, Conductor Brooks, who didn't like the actions of the three men, looked for the third of the trio. He found him in the washroom and ordered him out.

The Mexican left the train immediately after its arrival at the depot. Two minutes later the explosion occurred.

In addition to the jagged hole torn in the side of the heavy steel car, every window was smashed and window jambs were ripped away. That occupants of the car were not killed outright is a freak of the explosion that is puzzling railroad officials.

San Francisco.—The explosion Friday night, June 30, in the smoking car of Southern Pacific train No. 5 at the Sixteenth street station in Oakland was accomplished by a black powder bomb, probably with the intention of so timing the fuse that the bomb would go off on the Oakland mole, and thus cripple the Southern Pacific's western terminal. Such were the findings of the official board of inquiry July 1 which probed the explosion that wrecked the smoking car.

HUSBAND IS DROWNED IN SIGHT OF WIFE

Julien Liebes of San Francisco Loses Life at Long Beach

San Francisco.—A treacherous tide rip swirled in among the throng of happy bathers at Long Beach last Sunday, and when it receded it drew with it Julien Liebes, member of the firm of H. Liebes & Co. of this city, and his thirteen-year-old son, George. Liebes lost his life, even as his wife and another son looked on. George Liebes was rescued from the clutch of death.

Liebes, as he and his son entered the water, suggested that he carry the lad into the surf. The boy climbed up on his father's back. Mrs. Liebes remained on the beach. Liebes' other son, Martin, 10 years old, also was in bathing, but was not with his father.

As the swirl of water clutched at father and son, the two went down and the wave broke over their heads. Liebes was drawn down by the suction, and it is believed, at once strangled. The boy, by some freak of fate, came to the surface and screamed once or twice for help. Then he disappeared.

Life guards responded immediately. One of them, Byron Davis, managed to grasp the boy's arm as he searched about in the surf, and carried him to shore. The lad was unconscious but life remained. He was rushed to the bathhouse and there, after several minutes of working over his body, he opened his eyes and gazed into those of his distracted mother.

Liebes, his hand grasping a pile and his body submerged in only two feet of water, was found a few moments later by Charles Morehouse of Long Beach. Liebes, too, had a spark of life remaining, but it flickered out while first-aid treatment was being given him. Physicians pronounced him dead.

Liebes, both socially and in a business way, had for years been prominent in San Francisco. He was vice-president of H. Liebes & Co., importers and dealers in Alaskan furs, and he was a director in the Northern Commercial company. He was a member of the Concordia and Argonaut clubs and a leader in civic matters.

Alameda.—William J. Framheim, former employe of the Alameda electric plant, who was instantly killed by a train at Cushman, Or., where he was employed by the Southern Pacific company, was brought here for burial. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Emily Alsing Framheim, and a small son.

Hedding.—Ernest Florin, 40, a merchant of Fall River Mills, ran a foot race with his daughter and was stricken with paralysis, which caused his death.

Oakland.—With Superior Judge William Donahue as the speaker of the evening, a farewell reception was given June 29 in honor of Rev. J. W. Sullivan, pastor of Mission Dolores Church in San Francisco, by his former parishioners in St. Anthony's Church in East Oakland.

Oakland.—A plea for county aid in supporting the Baby Hospital was made June 29 before the Board of Supervisors by Mrs. S. M. Marks, president of the institution, who asked that an outlined appropriation be increased from $350 to $750 for additional nurses and supplies.

Salinas.—William Vanderhurst, City Treasurer of Salinas and one of its most prominent citizens, passed away Thursday, June 29, after an extended illness. He was a leader in fraternal society circles. The funeral was held Saturday morning, July 1. He is survived by his widow, two sons, Harold and Kenneth, and a daughter, Helen Vanderhurst.

Oakland, June 29.—The wedding of Miss Blanche Lillian Martin, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Oscar E. Martin of Amador county, and Joseph J. Botto was solemnized at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the First Methodist church in this city. Rev. Henry Winsor, former pastor of the Eighth-Avenue Methodist church, performed the ceremony in the presence of a number of relatives and friends of the couple.

Oakland.—Notwithstanding the fact that two men are held at the City prison charged with the murder of Louis Austin Morey, a striking lumber handler, June 17, a Coroner's jury Thursday, June 29, held that Morey met death as the result of a gunshot wound at the hands of persons unknown. Morey was shot down in a riot between union and non-union men at Fourth and Oak streets, Oakland.

Walnut Creek.—The last link in the new county highway which connects this city with Oakland was completed June 29 in front of the Town Hall, in the presence of town and county officials. Special material trains were supplied this week by the Oakland-Antioch and Eastern Railway to enable the contract to be completed before July 1. The highway is ten miles in length and made a landmark in its entirety.

San Rafael.—Alfonso G. Fernandez, a Sausalito merchant, drove his automobile over a twenty-foot embankment near Tocaloma Thursday morning, June 29, and although he was pinned under the car until aid was summoned from a mile away, the extent of his injuries was a slight gash in the chin from broken glass. Mrs. Fernandez, who was riding with her husband, sustained severe bruises about the legs. Dr. J. H. Kuser, county physician, chanced to be passing and rescued Fernandez from his position beneath the car.

EUROPEAN WAR ZONE ITEMS

PARIS, July 1.—The official communication tonight reads:

"North and south of the Somme, after artillery preparation and reconnoissances carried out in the preceding days, the Franco-British troops launched this morning an offensive on a front of about forty kilometers (25 miles)."

"In the morning and during the course of the afternoon, along the entire front attacked, the allied troops gained possession of the German first position."

"North of the Somme the French troops established themselves in the approaches in the village of Hardecourt and in the outskirts of the village of Curly, where the battle continues."

"South of the Somme, the villages of Domplierre, Bequincourt, Busu and Fay have fallen into our hands. The number of unwounded German prisoners captured by the French troops alone during the course of the day surpassed 3500."

"On the left bank of the Meuse there was a violent bombardment in the whole region of Hill 304 and Le Mort Homme."

"On the right bank, about 10 o'clock in the morning, our infantry moved forward to the assault of the Thiaumont work, of which we are in possession again."

"Aviation.—On the night of June 29-30 a group of our aeroplanes carried out the following bombardments: Eighteen shells of 120 millimeters were dropped on the Neule station, and six, of 120 millimeters, on Roye, where a fire broke out. Two shells, dropped on an automobile convoy northeast of Neule, were seen to fall in the midst of the cars. The same night thirteen of our aeroplanes dropped sixty shells on a German munitions factory in the outskirts of Noyon. Their objective was reached by most of the projectiles, the effects of which were observed."

"On the night of June 30-July 1 seven of our aeroplanes again dropped thirteen shells on the Neule station and crossing and six on the neighboring military establishment. A fire was observed."

"In the course of a reconnaissance one of our pilots was attacked by a Fokker. Though wounded during the first encounter he succeeded in bringing down his adversary, who fell in the forest of Bezange. On the way back the same pilot was again attacked by an enemy biplane and wounded a second time. He succeeded in extricating himself and returned to our lines."

BRITISH

London, July 2.—The official statement tonight reads:

"Heavy fighting continued all day between the Rivers Somme and Ancre and north of Ancre to Gommecourt, inclusive. The fight on the whole of this front still continues with intensity."

"On the right of our attack we have captured a German labyrinth of trenches on a front of seven miles to a depth of 1000 yards, and have stormed and occupied the strongly fortified villages of Montauban and Mammetz."

"In the center of our attack, on a front of four miles, we have gained many strong points, while at others the enemy is still holding out, and the struggle on this front is still severe."

"North of the Ancre valley to Gommecourt, inclusive, the battle is equally violent, and in this area we have been unable to retain portions of the ground gained in our first attacks, while other portions remain in our possession."

"Up to the present more than 2000 German prisoners have passed through our collecting stations, including two regimental commanders and the whole of one regimental staff."

"The large number of enemy dead on the battlefield indicates that the German casualties have been very severe, especially in the vicinity of Fricourt."

"The large number of enemy dead on the battlefield indicates that the German casualties have been very severe, especially in the vicinity of Fricourt."

"Last night parties of our troops penetrated the German trenches at various points on the front between Souchez and Ypres, in each case inflicting casualties on the garrisons before withdrawing, one raiding party capturing sixteen prisoners."

"Yesterday, in spite of a high wind, a large amount of successful work was done in the air. An important railway depot was attacked with powerful bombs. A large number of other bombs were dropped on depots, railway junctions, batteries, trenches and other points of military importance in the enemy's lines. Considerable aerial activity occurred today during the battle, but full details have not yet been collected. Our machines attacked a railway

GERMAN

Berlin, July 1.—The official statement today says:

"Western front.—Repeated French and British reconnoitering attacks during the night were everywhere repulsed. A number of prisoners and some material remained in our hands."

"The attacks were preceded by intense fire, gas attacks and mine explosions."

"Northeast of Rheims and north of Le Mesnil minor operations of the enemy infantry failed."

"Local infantry engagements occurred west of the Meuse. On the eastern bank the French attempted to recapture our positions on Froide Terre ridge and in the Thiaumont work. They brought up strong masses of troops in an endeavor to take these positions by storm. On the basis of an unimportant success at the beginning the French announced in advance last night the recapture of Thiaumont work. In reality the attack of the French failed everywhere with the most severe losses. The men who penetrated our lines at various points were captured. Only prisoners set foot in the original armored work."

"German patrols were engaged in successful encounters north of Farroy wood and west of Menones. The Emperor has awarded the Order of Merit to Lieutenant Wintgens, who yesterday shot down a French biplane west of Chateau Salins, in recognition of his splendid services in aerial fighting."

"An enemy aeroplane was put out of action by our gunfire near Gras and another in the region of Thiaumont."

"Attacks by enemy aerial squadrons on Lille caused no military damage. There were many victims among the civilian population, especially in the Church of St. Saviour, the number of killed or wounded exceeding fifty."

"In the towns of Douai, Bapaume, Peronne and Neule, numerous French inhabitants were killed or wounded by French and British gunfire and aircraft bombs."

"Eastern front.—Army group of General von Linsingen, west of Kolki, southwest of Sokul and near Wiczyzn, Russian positions have been captured. West and southwest of Lutsk the fighting continues in our favor."

"The Russians yesterday lost in prisoners 15 officers and 1365 men, and since June 16 they have lost 26 officers and 3165 men."

"Army group of General Count von Bothmer.—The enemy made futile cavalry attacks southwest of Thumacz for which he paid very heavily."

Berlin, June 29.—The official statement today says:

"Western front: The same conditions prevail along the British front and the north wing of the French front as have existed during the last few days. Attacks by enemy patrols and strong infantry detachments as well as gas attacks, have become numerous."

"Everywhere the enemy was repulsed. Waves of gas have given no results. Artillery fighting attained great intensity at certain points."

"North of the Aisne and in the Champagne, between Auburive and the Argonne, the French kept up a lively fire. Here also weak attacks were easily repulsed."

"Northwest of the Thiaumont works there were minor infantry engagements."

"Eastern front. Russian attacks, made by some companies between Dubatowka and Smorgon, failed under our curtain of fire."

"Near Guesstsch, southeast of Lyubtscha, a German division (detachment) stormed an enemy point of support east of the Niemen, taking two officers and fifty-six men prisoners and capturing two machine guns and two mine throwers."

"The official Austrian report yesterday says:

"Russian front: Near Kutly the enemy failed, as on previous days, in repeated attacks. Southwest of Novo Poczayel five Russian night attacks were repulsed. A strong Russian attack west of Torozyn broke down."

"West of Sukul German troops stormed Linewka farm and several other positions."

"Italian front: The Italians made attacks in several places on the front between the Adige and the Brenta. All were repulsed with heavy losses for the enemy."

"On the line between Douai and Cambrai. One of our airmen succeeded in dropping a bomb on trucks, which exploded. Other pilots saw the whole train in flames and heard further explosions."

In Shakespeare, 30 Letters.

It is rather remarkable, as Miss Ellen Terry pointed out in her address at His Majesty's theater recently, that despite the multitude of books which have been published about Shakespeare's plays, little attention has been given to the letters therein, the London Chronicle observes.

They number thirty in all, but easily escape attention. In fact, when Miss Terry asked three friends what they knew of the subject, two of them could not recall any letters at all, while the knowledge of the third does not extend beyond the letters occurring in the "Merry Wives of Windsor" and "The Merchant of Venice." These are letters made familiar through the medium of the theater.

No single one of Shakespeare's letters, written as a man and not as a playwright, has survived, but those in the plays, like the plays, perfect. They always feel naturally into the story. In the ordinary play letters are usually employed to give a clumsy explanation from the dramatist because he has not the skill to do it in any other way.

CALOMEL SELDOM SOLD HERE NOW

Every druggist in town—your druggist and everybody's druggist has noticed a great falling-off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason. Dodson's Liver Tone is taking its place. "Calomel is dangerous and people know it, while Dodson's Liver Tone is perfectly safe and gives better results," said a prominent local druggist. Dodson's Liver Tone is personally guaranteed by every druggist who sells it. A large bottle costs 50 cents, and if it fails to give easy relief in every case of liver sluggishness and constipation, you have only to ask for your money back.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasant-tasting, purely vegetable remedy, harmless to both children and adults. Take a spoonful at night and wake up feeling fine; no biliousness, sick headache, acid stomach or constipated bowels. It takes a dose of calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak, sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day's work! Take Dodson's Liver Tone instead and feel fine, full of vigor and ambition.—Adv.

FOUR CORNERS TO HUSBAND

They are Ability, Reliability, Endurance and Action, Would-Be Wives Are Informed.

Girls of today would make better and more practical marriages if they were taught to study the qualifications of the men they meet and to consider them in the same light as they do algebra problems at school, was the statement made by Mrs. Frank Dechant at the Parents' association meeting in the school of practice at Philadelphia.

Mrs. Dechant drew a square on the blackboard, its four corners indicating what, she said, were the four necessary adjuncts to a good husband—ability, reliability, endurance and action. To discover whether a man has these qualifications, she declared, was the problem every girl has to solve at least once in her lifetime, and she should be as carefully trained for it as she is for her school examinations.

She advocated mothers talking over with their daughters the characteristics of the young men they knew, not only to gain their opinions on the subject, but to give advice and counsel to them for their future life.

Every girl, she said, should be sure that the man she chooses has an abundance of the four qualifications before she makes up her mind to marry him, and she can only be sure if she has been taught and trained beforehand in a calm, dispassionate manner.

She also advocated talks on home-making, division of income and practical methods of housekeeping as a part of all girls' education, whether they are working girls or not.

Manhattan Is Flat-Footed. Little old Manhattan is flat-footed, wears poor shoes and stands up at its work, according to figures compiled by Capt. Frank E. Evans of the recruiting office of the United States Marine Corps. Captain Evans is authority for the statement that approximately 18 per cent of all applicants who applied for enlistment in the marine corps at its Twenty-third street office during the past year, were rejected for "pes planus," or flat-foot.

He puts the blame on the cheaply constructed, poorly made shoes the average soldier wears at his work for the epidemic of falling arch, and on the fact that the majority of victims claimed they were forced to stand on their feet for long stretches while at their employment.

Motormen, conductors, subway guards, policemen, machinists, waiters and clerks are the principal sufferers from "pes planus," Captain Evans says.—New York Times.

The Ex-Minister.

A member of the corps of the British legation said at a dinner in New York:

"Some funny stories come from the front about our volunteer army."

"Two young swells in the uniform of private soldiers were overheard by an officer conversing in a trench."

"I was intended for the ministry," the first swell said. "Believe me or not, old chap, I was on the point of being ordained last August."

"I say! And what stopped you, then?" inquired the other.

"This—war, of course," was the reply.

Army of Monaca Dissolved.

The army of Monaca, though small, was resplendent during peace times, but now that war is under way it has been dissolved because the professional soldiers who composed it have all been called home and are fighting under the French or Italian colors, as the case may be, or drawn up in the Swiss contingents guarding the frontier.

Ideals Make Possible Big Accomplishments of Life

By NELLIE R. UMSTOTT

Along life's way we often meet those who betray the fact that they doubt the practicability and value of ideals, but if, as such men believe, ideals are nothing but dreams, rosy and beautiful, yet perishable, why do men achieve great things in the face of every obstacle placed in their pathway? Is it not because they had an ideal and clung to it until it was realized?

Ideals, to be worth anything, must be made practical, and making them practical is the test of manhood.

Had our beloved poet, Longfellow, said, "Ideals are mere dreams; we are but common clay, filled with besetting sins, born to meet temptation on every hand and fall," would he have had the courage to write his immortal poems by which so many men have been inspired and strengthened? He is only one of many.

If we have an ideal, be it of manhood or womanhood, let us cling to it with might and main and make it a part of our lives. Then, perchance, some day someone, if only one, may strive to reach our ideal because he loves us.

Just as "thoughts are things," ideals are realities and we are the weavers.

A FEW SMILES

Blissful Ignorance.

"Do you know how many miles an hour your car is capable of making?" "No," answered the cautious motorist. "You see, I have never been in such a hurry to reach a certain destination that I was willing to risk breaking my neck trying to get there."

Like Reading a Book.

"Women patronize moving pictures in large numbers." "How do you account for that?" "Maybe it's because the silent drama offers superior advantages over the spoken play, from the feminine point of view."

"In what particular?"

"By coming in at the proper moment a woman can learn how a play ends and she can then settle back comfortably to see all the episodes when the film is reversed."

Unappreciative Parent.

"Old Mr. Cobles has a son who has taken several degrees at college." "I notice he loafs around home all the time and never does a stroke of work."

"Yes. Another degree was recently conferred on him by Mr. Cobles, the degree of 'N. W. K.'"

"What does that mean?"

"Not worth killing."

Accomplishment Worth While.

"Making much progress with your garden, Dubwaite?"

"You will be surprised to hear what I have accomplished."

"You work it every day, I presume?"

"No. I've succeeded in persuading my wife to work it."

A Rash Promise.

"Here's an attractive advertisement for summer boarders."

"What does it say?"

"Act as if you owned the earth at our place and we'll act as if we were going to give it to you."

That Elusive Vote.

"No matter how insignificant a man may be, he always feels important on election day."

"Yes. That's due to the power of the ballot. Election day is the only day in the year when some men possess anything that anybody else would go out of his way to get."

A Cogent Plea.

"Mister, would you be willin' to help a war victim?"

"Of course I would."

"Then you ought to be willin' to give me a dime. You know they say charity begins at home."

Artificial Blood Latest.

Blood infusion will no longer require the sacrifice of blood from one person to save the life of another, it is an invention of a New York physician meets the claims now being made for it. It is a formula for artificial blood which closely approximates the characteristics of real blood. It is composed chiefly of gelatin solution, sodium chloride and distilled water. The danger from hemorrhage is due not so much to the loss of the actual corpuscles in the blood as to the loss of volume. A number of experiments with this new formula indicate that it will serve as a substitute for human blood, at least in many cases.

MOTHER'S COOK BOOK

Washington Omelet.

Soak a cupful of bread crumbs in a cupful of hot milk. Beat six egg yolks and add to the crumbs with salt and pepper. Fold in the beaten whites of the eggs and bake in a thickly buttered pan in a rather hot oven for 15 minutes. This is very good served with a garnish of green peas or tomato sauce.

Apple Salad.

Take equal parts of diced apple, celery and a few blanched walnuts, mix with enough mayonnaise to moisten well and add one tablespoonful of horseradish to each pint of salad. Diced pineapple may be used instead of the nuts, making a pleasant variety.

Spinach.

This is one of the valuable vegetables which supply us with iron. Wash it carefully and put it to cook with no water but that which clings to the leaves. Cover at first until its own juice flows, then open and boil till tender, watch it carefully and turning it to keep it from scorching. Chop very fine and serve with hard-boiled eggs as a garnish, or simply with vinegar and a seasoning of salt, pepper and butter.

Whole-Wheat Pudding.

Take two cupfuls of whole-wheat flour, a half teaspoonful of soda, a cupful of milk, a half teaspoonful of salt, a cupful of dates and a half cupful of molasses, beat well, and steam 2 1/2 hours in a buttered mold. If thick sour milk is used, add a teaspoonful of soda. Serve with whipped cream, plain cream or any preferred liquid sauce.

Rhubarb and Raisin Pudding.

Here is one you can give the children: Take a pint of rhubarb cut in half-inch pieces, sprinkled with a cupful of sugar. Let stand an hour or more. Toss a pint of bread crumbs into three tablespoonfuls of melted butter. Put in layers into a baking dish, sprinkling a cupful of raisins in between, having the crumbs on top. Cover closely the first half hour and bake one hour. Serve with a sauce or with beaten cream.

Bread spread with butter and the rhubarb and raisins put over it in layers is another splendid pudding, also baked.

Bananas baked with butter, sugar and lemon juice for a sauce are delicious served with beefsteak.

MONGOOSE IS A PEST

WEST INDIES SEEKING PLAN TO GET RID OF IT.

Government Rewards Have Only Had the Effect of Adding to Their Number, and the Problem Has Become Serious.

"The mongoose pest is becoming really serious. It is worse than ever," writes a Trinidad correspondent to a British paper.

Formerly, he says, the government gave a substantial reward for each body or tail produced, but no substantial reduction resulted. Some enterprising peasants were suspected of making a successful minor industry by breeding the mongooses, and in one ward it was established that an innocent warden had paid for the same tails over and over again. As soon as he was caught he was buried, only to be dug up and sold again in the morning.

Another amusing, if expensive, thing occurred in this connection. In two adjoining wards an experiment was tried. At one they gave a flat rate—75 cents each—male or female. At another the price was $1 for the female and 50 cents for the male.

After some time it dawned on the official purchasers that there was a great preponderance of females in the latter ward. The simple peasant had again proved one too many for the authorities. Inquiry proved that all the females caught in both wards were sold in the one where the price was raised, and all the males vice versa. Then the government got tired of it, and no further reward was given.

The mongoose, it may be recalled, was imported into the West Indies in the seventies of last century, to exterminate the rats which ravaged the cane fields. They did this most effectively, but, having destroyed the rats, they turned their attention to poultry and birds. Then lizards fell a prey to their voracious appetites, with the result that the insects increased in an alarming extent. Finally the mongoose became as great a pest there as rabbits are in Australia.

National Debt of France.

The national debt of France listed before the outbreak of war was $6,436,139,000, (American Whitaker, 1916, latest figures available, 1913). Assuming that subscriptions to the French loan of victory reach a total of $4,000,000,000, the total debt of France at the present time would, according to the best estimate available at the moment, be in the neighborhood of $16,800,000,000. By the listing before the war, which is chiefly for the fiscal year ended in October, 1913, the largest national debt was that of France, with Russia second, the United Kingdom third, Italy fourth, and Spain fifth.

From the outbreak of war until October of this year Germany had been the largest borrower. Great Britain the second, Russia third, France fourth, and Austria fifth. Germany's debt has increased by more than 500 per cent, Great Britain's by about 160 per cent, Russia's by about 50 per cent, while that of France has increased by less than one-third. This does not, however, include the "loan of victory."

Kipling No Lover of Cats.

Rudyard Kipling, says the London Chronicle, is evidently no lover of cats, for the tale of "The Cat Who Walked by Himself" is based on the latest hostility between the cat and the man. He describes how the dog, the horse and the cat in turn are attracted to the cave of our ancestors and become domesticated, but the cat still retains his freedom. Even though he has fallen a victim to the seductions of the fire-side, and agreed to accept the terms imposed by the man and the dog, he never becomes really friendly.

You remember the lines: "He will kill mice and he will be kind to babies when he is in the house, just as long as he doesn't pull his tail too hard. But when night comes he is the cat that walks by himself, and all places are alike to him. Then he goes out to the wet, wild woods, up the wet, wild trees, or on the wet, wild roofs waving his wild tail and walking by his wild love."

Different Fish Story.

J. Clarence Harvey, the Lamb's club wit, is telling this story about clubbation: The proprietor of a fish store had a new sign, "Fresh Fish for Sale Here." "Why say 'here'?" said the first customer. "It's unnecessary," he painted "here" out. Said the second customer, "Why 'for sale'?" Of course they're for sale," he painted over two words more. "Why 'fresh'?" said a third customer. "You wouldn't sell them if they weren't fresh, would you?" At last the sign read just "Fish." Along came a fourth customer. "What's the use of having that sign," he asked, "when you can smell them a block away?"—New York World.

The Germ Peril.

"We know a great deal more about germs nowadays than we used to know."

"Quite true. And I think the knowledge has made the average person less courageous than formerly."

How so?

"For instance, by merely shaking your handkerchief in a man's face these days you can alarm him almost as much as if the handkerchief were a 'six-shooter.'"

IF YOU SUFFER FROM BACKACHE, LUMBAGO, KIDNEYS OR RHEUMATISM, TAKE HOT WATER AND "ANURIC"

American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead, when your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night, when you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your druggist—"ANURIC." Because of the uric acid in over-abundance in the system, backache, pains here and there, rheumatism, gout, gravel, neuritis and sciatica result. It was Dr. Pierce who discovered a new agent, called "Anuric," which will throw out and eradicate this uric acid from the system. Dr. Pierce believes "Anuric" to be 37 times more potent than lithia, and consequently you need no longer fear muscular or articular rheumatism or gout, or many other diseases which are dependent on an accumulation of uric acid within the body. Send Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., 10c. for trial package or $1.00 for full treatment "Anuric."

Dr. Pierce's reputation is back of this medicine and you know that his "Pleasant Pellets" for the liver and his "Fruit of Life" for the blood are the standard of medicine. The standard of medicine for women have had a splendid reputation for the past 50 years.

Turkey Welcomed in Every Country Where the People Appreciate Good Things to Eat.

In every corner of the globe almost, at least where civilization has spread its epicurean tastes, may be found the domesticated turkey—not, however, in his own volition. Never would he, in his wild state, have sought to cross the stormy seas to find green fields and pastures new.

He is not so constructed. He is not bold or adventurous of disposition. On the contrary, he is timid and much afraid of things he does not understand, and when undisturbed is prone to let well enough alone and get along with his accustomed feeding grounds.

Again, as a flier the turkey is

Why shouldn't the Standard Oil Company make the best oil—with over 40 years experience in refining—with unequalled plant equipment? And Zerolene is scientifically refined from selected California crude—asphalt-base. Prominent authorities have recently declared that an oil correctly refined from asphalt-base crude can be made not only equal but superior to paraffine-base oils. "For the cause that lacks assistance. Against the wrong that needs resistance. For the future in the distance. And the good that we can do."

THE HIGH COST OF DYING

It is stated by a retired undertaker that there is 500 per cent profit on the investment of all material and services that enter into the burial of the average person. For example: If deceased is worth the price, say a $300.00 charge by the undertaker, the actual cost to the undertaker is approximately $75. This includes carriages and the extras which are charged for regardless of real value.

Two dollars and fifty cents a pair for ten-cent cotton gloves for pall bearers is enough to cause the deceased to flop over in his casket and register a protest that would stop the funeral cortege and call the obsequies off.

It is said that a $200.00 casket costs about $15.80. If it costs so much to "kick off" in this day of overcharge and graft, why not have cut-rate undertakers, or else have the railroad commission do some investigating and revising?

It is not only the high cost of living which requires such attention, but the high cost of dying.

And now we are to have another "morning newspaper." What's the "idea?"

The report that Senator E. B. Martineau had withdrawn from the race has not been officially confirmed. It may only be one of Bud Fisher's "Bull Mole" rumors.

It is hard to locate responsibility for the original 700,000-club idea, except that it originated in San Francisco. The proposition, instead of being taken up even in San Francisco, is meeting with general condemnation on the part of all who understand that movements for the betterment of a city must have broad foundations. Certain of our local officials, who have espoused the cause will, we hope, come to understand the far-reaching scope of the proposition and not become parties to the exclusion of persons from making a living unless they consented to live within the city limits of Richmond.

"Before and After Taking."

Editor Sharkey of the Martinez Standard, candidate for State Senator, is versatile and tactful. Elected Assemblyman from this district on the progressive ticket, and now registered as a progressive, he advocates a "united front." He calls attention to the slogan: "United We Stand, Divided We Fall." The following "conciliatory" paragraph appears in the Standard of June 27, 1916:

"Chairman Francis V. Keesling of the Republican State Central Committee made the statement some time ago that the Republicans would be united and that such unity would mean victory at the polls in November. Chairman Keesling proved a real prophet in the first instance—all factions of the Republican party have died, the leaders are back in the front rank with their opponents of a few years ago; all are fighting with one purpose—VICTORY in November, then Chairman Keesling will prove a prophet in the second instance."

Problems of Journalism.

How to meet increased cost of paper, ink, metals and machinery without raising subscription price or advertising rates?

How to stop price-cutting on printing and advertising when all other lines of business and professions are maintaining prices?

How to establish a fair rate for legal advertising when all other public business or service has its price fixed by law?

These are a few of the hard nuts the publisher has to crack and he realizes that unless he cracks them he has a back-breaking load to carry.

These are some of the problems that the editors of the state must meet.

Federal Inquiry or Railroad Strike?

Faced by demands from the conductors, engineers, firemen and brakemen that would impose on the country an additional burden in transportation costs of $100,000,000 a year, the railroads propose that this wage problem be settled by reference to an impartial Federal tribunal.

With these employees, whose efficient service is acknowledged, the railroads have no differences that could not be considered fairly and decided justly by such a public body.

Railroads Urge Public Inquiry and Arbitration

The formal proposal of the railroads to the employees for the settlement of the controversy is as follows:

"Our conferences have demonstrated that we cannot harmonize our differences of opinion and that eventually the matters in controversy must be passed upon by other and disinterested agencies. Therefore, we propose that your proposals and the proposition of the railroads be disposed of by one or the other of the following methods:

1. Preferably by submission to the Interstate Commerce Commission, the only tribunal which, by reason of its accumulated information bearing on railway conditions and its control of the revenue of the railroads, is in a position to consider and protect the rights and equities of all the interests affected, and to provide additional revenue necessary to meet the added cost of operation in case your proposals are found by the Commission to be just and reasonable; or, in the event the Interstate Commerce Commission cannot, under existing laws, act in the premises, that we jointly request Congress to take such action as may be necessary to enable the Commission to consider and promptly dispose of the questions involved; or
2. By arbitration in accordance with the provisions of the Federal law" (The Newlands Act).

Leaders Refuse Offer and Take Strike Vote

Leaders of the train service brotherhoods, at the joint conference held in New York, June 1-15, refused the offer of the railroads to submit the issue to arbitration or Federal review, and the employees are now voting on the question whether authority shall be given these leaders to declare a nation-wide strike.

The Interstate Commerce Commission is proposed by the railroads as the public body to which this issue ought to be referred for these reasons:

No other body with such an intimate knowledge of railroad conditions has such an unquestioned position in the public confidence.

The rates the railroads may charge the public for transportation are now largely fixed by this Government body.

Out of every dollar received by the railroads from the public nearly one-half is paid directly to the employees as wages; and the money to pay increased wages can come from no other source than the rates paid by the public.

The Interstate Commerce Commission, with its control over rates, is in a position to make a complete investigation and render such decision as would protect the interests of the railroad employees, the owners of the railroads, and the public.

A Question For the Public to Decide

The railroads feel that they have no right to grant a wage preferment of $100,000,000 a year to these employees, now highly paid and constituting only one-fifth of all the employees, without a clear mandate from a public tribunal that shall determine the merits of the case after a review of all the facts.

The single issue before the country is whether this controversy is to be settled by an impartial Government inquiry or by industrial warfare.
